

I feel that in the confined space of an airplane the use of telephones would be an unnecessary disturbance to the other passengers. Even now, in restaurants, etc. I have seen peoples demand or ask that someone seated close to them turn off their phone. We all know how annoying the constant ringing, musical and other sounds coming from the phones can be. I do not wish to be forced to listen to someone elses conversation, etc. We do not need road rage on a plane. Therefore, I would vote against the use of cell phones on planes.

Thank you
